

BIRMINGHAM PUBLIC LIBRARY ARCHIVES DEPARTMENT

Birmingham Public Library. Wylam Branch Wylam History Files, 1898-1967

Background:

Wylam, Alabama, to the west of Birmingham, originated as a mining town housing employees of the nearby coal mines and steel mills. It was incorporated in 1900. It later became part of the City of Ensley and in 1910 was incorporated into the City of Birmingham. The material in this collection was compiled by librarians at the Wylam Branch Library of the Birmingham Public Library.

Scope and Content:

The first half of this collection contains materials recounting the history of several institutions and churches in the Wylam community. The second half is devoted to material relating to World War II. Most of the items are photographs and newspaper clippings.
