SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Alabama Railroad Depot collection is composed of black and white post cards of railroad depots from around the state. These twentieth century photographs depict the small wooden depots found in the country as well as the grand scale stations found in the larger cities. Most of the depots share the same basic architectural design with structural details differentiating them. Not all of the post cards are dated but the majority of the pictures were taken in the 1950s and 1970s. The most popular railway lines represented are the Frisco, Southern, and L & N.
